ReWa Participates in Upstate Spice of Life Show

Greenville, S.C. (April 30, 2011) – Renewable Water Resources (ReWa) recently partnered with the inaugural Upstate Spice of Life Show’s Green Living Area.

The Upstate Spice of Life Show is a vivid and interactive cooking and entertaining show with a twist. Learn about health and well-being through lifestyle, food choices and overall balance. This show will motivate and educate you to live happy and be well.

ReWa presented in the Green Living area to promote its upcoming Project Rx: A River Remedy event. Project Rx is a medication take-back program to help protect our rivers and residents by properly disposing of unwanted prescriptions, over-the-counter, vitamins and veterinary medications. Other programs ReWa presented included its Fats, Oils & Grease (FOG) campaign to teach participants to collect “FOG” in ReWa’s Grease-Be-Gone can instead of pouring down the drain and causing sewer backups.

ReWa also brought Freshwater Freddie, its educational mascot onsite to help teach kids about environmental tips that they can practice at home.
